

Feminist Scholars

DIGITAL WORKSHOP

June 12 - 18, 2017

Sponsored by HASTAC &
James Madison University's
School of Writing, Rhetoric & Technical Communication

Greetings from the Director

I am pleased to welcome you to the 2017 Feminist Scholars Digital Workshop, an organization devoted to fostering interdisciplinary feminist research, collaboration, and mentorship. As you'll see from the program, this year's call for participants received enthusiastic responses with over 230 participants from 35 countries!

This year's workshop would not be possible without support from volunteers who have generously given their time and energy in so many ways. From my heart, thank you. I also want to extend a special thanks to this year's keynote speakers, Ms. Jenny Korn and Dr. Erin Frost, who have added immeasurably to everyone's workshop experience. Additionally, I have been fortunate enough to work with many wonderful individuals at HASTAC and James Madison University's School of Writing, Rhetoric and Technical Communication, whose dual sponsorship makes the workshop possible. Finally, I want to thank my husband, Charles Radcliffe, who has provided tireless support and encouragement as well as cheerful assistance since I founded the workshop in 2013.

Once again, I want to extend a warm welcome to you. I hope that we can use this time to forward feminist values and scholarship as well as to enrich one another through our collaborations.

Keynote Speakers

Ms. Jenny Ungbha Korn

Intersectional Feminist Solidarity in Networked Practices: Shared Online Experiences and Strategies Involving Feminist Identity and the Digital,
Monday, June 12 2-3:00

Jenny Ungbha Korn is a Thai-American feminist of color from Alabama and a member of Mensa, the high intelligence quotient (IQ) society. She is a scholar of race, gender, and media with academic training in communication, sociology, theatre, public policy, and gender studies from Princeton, Harvard, Northwestern, and the University of Illinois at Chicago. Her work has been published in The Encyclopedia of Asian American Culture, Feminist Media Studies, Hashtag Publics, The Intersectional Internet, The Journal of International and Intercultural Communication, and more. She has won the Carl J. Couch Internet Research Award, the University of Illinois President's Research in Diversity Travel Award, the OSCLG Outstanding Conference Paper Award, and top honors for her research from the Minorities and Communication division of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication.

Dr. Erin Frost

Feminist Credibility: Negotiating Subjectivity in Public Spaces,
Thursday, June 15, 2-3:00

Dr. Erin Frost is an Assistant Professor of English at East Carolina University. Dr. Frost's work centers on intersections between feminism, technical communication, and rhetoric. Her current project analyzes gender variations in patient perceptions of medical digital imaging. Her dissertation, "Theorizing an Apparent Feminism in Technical Communication," won the 2015 CCCC Outstanding Dissertation in Technical Communication Award. Frost's work has appeared in Technical Communication Quarterly, Computers and Composition, Peitho, Journal of Business and Technical Communication, Communication Design Quarterly, Present Tense, and more.
